"I really enjoyed the Whole Woman Experience. If you were not there you missed a treat. Embracing your imperfections, being inadequate, illusions of false positives are some of the topics we discussed. We should always know our value and worth. I really didn't want to attend because I've had so many things going on in my own personal life and sometimes you just want to be left alone. I was encouraged, inspired, uplifted and now determined to get much more out of life."
